

(UNITED KINGDOM)

The key sectors of the national economy are: Coal production, financial services, business services, aerospace, chemical, pharmaceutical and automotive industries.

The sectors that represent great investment opportunities are: renewable energies, information and communication technologies, creative industries (music, cinema, theatre, design, etc.), or the luxury industry and distribution.

The sectors prohibited or with few opportunities for foreign investment are: The British economy is one of the most liberal in the world. However, the government maintains different levels of control over certain sectors, including transport, energy, health, defense, and media.

Investor incentives: The Ministry of International Trade of the Ministry of Industry and Trade provides its services to inform foreign companies about settlement aid in Great Britain. Business zones have been created to promote industrial and commercial development. These zones allow companies to benefit from tax exemptions. Companies can contact the Department of Business, Energy and Industrial Strategy to obtain further details regarding the different regions.

There are a number of grants and other forms of assistance available to businesses in the UK. The main forms of aid are the main forms of aid are tax breaks for R&D investments and patent reliefs.